VALUABLE

Timber Lands

And Mill Property

FOR SALE.

THE subscriber, desirous of disposing of all his interest in Timber Lands and mills, will sell on Liberal terms the following:

One-Half Township No. 5, Range 4, Oxford County.

This whole township contains twenty-six thousand (26000) acres, is heavily timbered with spruce, estimated at sixty to eighty millions, all of which stands within easy and cheap hauling distance of the Magalloway river or its branches, which runs through the town, and Umbagog Lake, which is embraced within its limits.

Also 17,000 Acres of Land in the Town of Byron, Oxford Co.

well-covered with large spruce timber. Swift river and its branches run through these lands and empty into the Androscoggin below Rumford Falls.

Also 1100 Acres Timber and Wood Land in Town of Gorham, N. H.

two miles above the Alpine House, on the lands of the Grand Trunk Railroad, and the banks of the Androscoggin river. There is a large quantity of wood on these lots which, from its proximity to the Railroad, is rapidly increasing in value.

Also 2600 Acres Lands in the Towns of Albany and Stoneham, near the village of North Waterford, Oxford County. This land is covered with thrifty sapling Pine timber, standing near Crooked river, which runs through the tract. Logs put into Crooked river can be run to Sebago pond, or by hauling four or five miles they can be put into the Saco. There is a good mill privilege, with a single saw mill on the tract; distant to the canal at Harrison one mile, to the railroad at South Paris twelve miles. The land is valuable for settling purposes after being cleared of timber.

Also 423 Shares of Stock in the Lewiston Steam Mill Company, the whole capital stock being represented by 827 shares. The property of the company consists of a steam saw mill, capable of manufacturing 3,000,000 feet of long lumber, with a proportionate amount of clapboards, shingles and lath. About fifteen acres land in the city of Lewiston, well located for building purposes, and thirty thousand acres of timber land, well located on the Androscoggin river and its branches, from which but a small quantity of the timber has been cut.

were admitted to bail. Marshal Bailey has gathered large quantities of arms and ammunition. Gen. Donnelly is still at Franklin, less seriously wounded than reported. Nearly all the Fenians had left St. Albans and vicinity for home, crowding on the trains in spite of the officials. Murphy, the teamster captured by the Canadians, had not been hung yesterday, as was threatened. Five hundred Fenians were reported bound to Malone, but would be stopped by the authorities. At Potsdam Junction, an attempt to seize a train of cars was repulsed by U.S. Troops, and trains are now furnished with a guard. The Fenian General Starr has left for home. He reports the forces as an unorganized rabble. One man was killed and two wounded at Trout river. The report of the demand by Gen. Foster for captured guns and the defiant reply of the Canadians is untrue. A Canadian who was in the fight at Richards' farm, says that they had only 30 men engaged. Gen. Meade was in Ogdensburg on Sunday and reports the Fenian war ended. Considerable alarm continues to be felt in some portions of Canada, and all available troops are pushed to the front. A report that Minister Thornton had demanded his passports caused much excitement in Montreal. The retreating force of the Fenians will probably be met with more or less depredations, but will retreat as fast as they can get the means of [illegible]

MEMORIAL DAY IN BANGOR.

PROCESSION—SERVICES AT MOUNT HOPE—ADDRESS BY GOV. CHAMBERLAIN—IMMENSE AUDIENCE.

May 30th, the day appointed by the Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic of the United States, for the general observance of the beautiful ceremonies of decorating the soldiers' graves, opened beautifully. After a slight haze, the sky was cloudless. The sun shone with great warmth, but a brisk, refreshing breeze came up from the southwest, during the forenoon, tempering the intense heat and rendering the afternoon very comfortable. The only objectionable feature of the day, was the dust, which in the streets not sprinkled, arose in clouds. The shipping in the harbor, and many public and private buildings, displayed their flags at half-mast all day, and all showed marks of respect for the day. The city bells were tolled from one to two o'clock, and for several hours thereafter, most of our people suspended their business.

At 1:30 p. m. a procession under command of Post Commander E. E. Small, was formed on Broadway, the right resting on Prospect street, in the following order:

Bangor Cornet Band—A. D. Harlow, Leader.
Jameson Guards—Capt. Daniel White, Commander.
Orator—Gen. Chamberlain.

A few minutes before two o'clock p. m. the procession moved, passing up Broadway to Somerset Street to Centre, up Centre to Spring, down Spring to Harlow, down Harlow to Abbott Square (where the pupils, composing the Grand Chorus, under L. A. Torrens, Director, with Orchestra of twelve pieces, M. H. Andrews, Leader, joined,) down Harlow to Central street, through Central to Main, when the fell into the line. The march was then resumed up Main St. to Union, down Union to Front street, where the procession took a special train provided for them, and rode to Mount Hope. Several large trains were dispatched before this, each of which was crowded to its utmost capacity, and by the time the procession reached the cemetery, there were, it is estimated, nearly ten thousand people on the grounds. The soldiers' graves in this beautiful cemetery were adorned with the most elaborate and tasteful floral decorations, and it would be impossible in our limited space, to give a list of them, or a description of their different designs.

The Soldiers' Monument, the centre of all attention, deserves a special description. From the summit of the shaft, twelve stalwart evergreens,—in all sixteen hundred feet in length—extended to equidistant points on the granite curb that surrounds the base. On the summit of the shaft waved the old flag of the Second Maine Regiment of Infantry, bearing on its folds the names of the engagements in which this band of brave men—the first that went from Maine, in the war of the Rebellion—participated. Around the base of the monument were, the mottoes in green on a white ground: "Died in Battle" "Beloved," "Unfortunate Brave," "Honored." The upper part of the base and the shaft were festooned with wreaths of rare and beautiful flowers and evergreens. Half way up the shaft on the north side, was hung a fine portrait of General Jameson, in a unique and finely designed frame. This frame was carved by Seavey & Son, and represents the American flag, in the folds of which the portrait appears, and the whole is surmounted by an eagle in gilt. Three shields, with emblems of the different arms of the service, tastefully designed and executed by the same firm, were placed on the other sides of the monument. The tout ensemble of the whole was very fine, and it reflects great credit upon the decorating committee, Capt. Herman Bartlett chairman, who have been untiring in their labors.

Arrived at Mount Hope, the procession reformed, marched through the principal avenues of the cemetery, and formed a hollow square at the north of the Soldiers' Monument, where the ceremonies were to take place.

Notwithstanding the heat of the direct rays of the sun, which seemed to beat down fiercer here than elsewhere, the immense crowd, present packed closely around the line of guards until every inch of standing room was occupied. The scene was very impressive and entirely beyond description.

The City Government, the veterans of 1812 and a number of prominent citizens, accompanied and escorted the orator, Governor Chamberlain, upon the raised terrace about the foot of the monument. Commander Small ordered the officers and colors to the front and centre, and while the band played "Rest Spirit, Rest," the 300 scholars of our common schools comprising the chorus, entered the hollow square. After the band had ceased playing, the chorus, under the direction of Mr. Torrens and accompanied by Andrews' orchestra, sang the following:

HYMN ON PEACE.

Angel of Peace, thou fair wandering one long

30 young ladies dressed in red, white and blue.

Citizens and School Children.

The procession marched to the cemetery between the upper and lower villages, where it was joined by the children of the primary schools at Brewer village, taught by Misses Long and Kline. The arch under which the procession passed was tastefully draped with American flags and festooned with evergreen. Proceeding up and over the elevation at the front of the cemetery, the procession formed a hollow square on the level in the rear, and the officers and colors were ordered to the front and centre. The Band played "Rest, Spirit, Rest" after which Sergt. M. P. Nickerson read the order of Gen. Logan, Commander of the G. A. R., directing the observing of the present Memorial Day. Prayer was offered by Chaplain Lincoln, of the Post, and the choir, under the direction of Mr. Hezzeltine, sang the dirge "O, it is great for our country to die."

Col. Jasper Hutchings of Brewer, then delivered a very brief but eloquent address, and read the Roll of Honor, on which are sixty-three names. Col. Hutchings closed by reciting—

"Your Sleep, the Brave."

"America" was sung by the choir, and a detachment of the Post, consisting of the members from Brewer, accompanied by a number of young ladies, proceeded to decorate the graves of the soldiers. While this ceremony was in progress, the band played Mozart's "Coal Fan Tutte" and the sonata "To the dead and the beautiful."

The procession reformed at the close of this decoration, and marched back to the Town Hall where the Brewer portion of it disbanded, and the Post marched back to Bangor. A large number of people witnessed the ceremonies, among whom were many from this side of the river.

MEMORIAL DAY.

We have received the following dispatches, with reference to the observance of Memorial ceremonies:

BOSTON, May 30.

The observances of Decoration Day in Boston and vicinity, were exceedingly impressive and interesting. Posts of the G. A. R. were out in full force, paying tribute to the brave dead. The weather was delightful.

LOWELL, Mass., May 30.

Extensive preparations were made for celebrating the day. Monument Square, where Ladd and Whitney, shot at Baltimore, are buried, was beautifully decorated. The school children sang and the Grand Army of the Republic marched through the city. Business was generally suspended.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 30.

Memorial Day is observed here by a considerable suspension of business, the closing of the schools, banks and public offices, the muffling of flags and tolling of bells, which long procession of the Grand Army, headed by Gen. Burnside, proceeded to the several Cemeteries to strew the graves with flowers.

NEW YORK, May 30.

Dispatches from Washington, Philadelphia and other cities, announce the observance of Decoration Day in a more perfect and general manner than ever before. From Washington several thousand persons went to Arlington Cemetery, where an original poem was read by Dr. C. C. Cox and an oration was delivered by Gen. John A. Logan. Congress is not in session and the Department buildings are closed and business generally suspended.

The exercises at the National Cemetery in Georgetown, D. C., on Decoration Day, consisted of a prayer by Rev. Dr. Newman of the Metropolitan Methodist Church, an oration by Gen. Logan (and the choral "A strong castle is our Lord," by a chorus of 300 voices) and the Marine band.

NEW YORK, May 30.

Decoration Day is observed with more than the usual ceremony in this city and vicinity. A long procession was formed on Union Square at 9 A. M., and marched down Broadway to Brooklyn Ferry, thence proceeded to Cypress Hill Cemetery, where an oration was delivered by Gen. James B. McKean. Minute guns were fired from Governor's Island Battery, from 11 to 1 o'clock.

CITY AFFAIRS.

A special meeting of the two Boards of the City Council was held last evening for the purpose to a call issued by Mayor to consider the offer of certain propositions made by a special committee of the Board of Aldermen, to the E. & N. A. Railway Co. and Mr. Martin Lincoln for building the B. & P. Railroad, which propositions were laid before the Whig & Courier on Saturday.

The Chairman, Alderman Dole, read a report of the reception of said propositions, and the report was accepted and concurred in by Alderman Dole, who expressed himself in favor of the acceptance of said proposition on one of the grounds.

The following resolutions were introduced by Alderman Crosby, and Alderman Roberts called the yeas and nays thereon, and moved that the vote be published. The vote was as follows:

Yeas—Aldermen Roberts, Crosby, Gladden and Morse. Nays—none. Alderman Rawson being out of town, and Aldermen Dole and Foster having retired before the vote was taken.

Resolved, That the proposal made by the European & North American Railway Company, through its President, O. K. Hawes, to a Committee of the Board of Aldermen, to lease the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad, for thirty years, strengthened and ironed road with the cost of completing the same, and also with the loan of a certain City Bonds, issued to aid the construction of said B. & P. Railroad, which it proposes to pay on account of said last named road (after the City shall have paid six months' interest on the same due October 1st, 1870,) and to credit it in offset, with only 10 per cent of the gross earnings of said road; and without any stipulations as to the time of completing the construction of said road, or in regard to the rates of freight to be carried over the respective roads, is manifestly against the interests of the City, as a large stockholder in and mortgagee of said B. & P. Railroad, and should not be accepted by said Company.

Resolved, That the proposal made to said Committee by Mr. M. Lincoln and his associates for leasing said B. & P. R. R. is not less objectionable than that made by the E. & N. A. Railway Company.

Resolved, That in the opinion of the City Council the true interests of Bangor require that a loan of the City Bonds be made to the B. & P. R. R. Company, to such an amount as the Mayor and Aldermen may determine to be necessary to complete the construction of said Railroad, so as to put it in the best condition to pay the interest on the City Bonds already issued for its benefit—not to exceed the amount of $120,000, agreeable to the terms of the loan bill to be submitted to the voters of Bangor on Thursday the third day of June next.

In Board of Aldermen, May 30, 1870.—Passed—Yeas 4, nays none; sent down for concurrence.

GEO. W. SNOW, City Clerk.

In Common Council, May 30, 1870.—Passed in concurrence—Yeas 10, nays 2.

M. E. HORGKINS, Clerk pro tem.

And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportation of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freight seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of most important and profitable First and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line, ($17,000,000).

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and appurtenances, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative, and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and especially adapted to the wants of

Investors and Capitalists,

Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.

The Bonds are in denominations of $1,000, $500, and $100,

and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.

Interest Six per cent per annum, payable May 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.

NEW TEAS.

The China Tea Company,

have just received a large lot of very choice

NEW TEAS,

Imported by

the Chinese Tea Importer of Boston, which were carefully selected by him for his family trade.

These Teas were brought by Mail Steamer to San Francisco, and thence by rail to Boston, occupying less than forty days in their transit from China and Japan to Boston. Teas which have stood 40 days in sailing vessels are months old on the ocean, and thereby lose one fourth of their strength and flavor. Our importation, and we have no hesitation in warranting them to be the best ever offered in Bangor, or found to any less over sold by any Tea Store in the United States. Our prices are as low as the lowest.

PURE COFFEE.

We buy our Coffees directly of the Importers. This saves the profits and enables us to sell at a lower price, than ordinary traders.

Our Coffee is roasted fresh every week at

and sent to us fresh. We do not keep ground Coffee on hand, but have in our Store a first class mill by which to grind Coffee to order. This enables us to deliver the Coffee in the Berrel, have it ground without extra cost before their eyes, and thus save themselves from being imposed upon by the infusion of peas and old sea-weed.

PURE SPICES.

Our Spices are all ground to order and are warranted strictly pure.

TOBACCO.

We have our Tobacco of the manufacturers, and so are enabled to retail at wholesale prices.

MUSTARDS.

We have a fine supply, English ground, and American Mustards, Mustard Seed, Mild, at low prices.

RAISINS.

Our supply of Raisins, English Currants, Prunes, &c., is large, and our prices very low.

SODA.

We are selling at wholesale prices, English Soda, Good Medal Saleratus, Healford's Bread Preparation, etc., etc.

SOAPS.

Our arrangements will the manufacturers are such that we can retail our soaps at wholesale prices.

COCOA.

Chocolate, Broma and Shells, at less than manufacturers prices.

Rice, Tapioca, Extracts, Oat Meal, English and American Pickles, Pearl Barley, Jellies, Tapioca, Spiced Olives, Table Oil, Can Peaches, Tomatoes, Tomato, Walnut and Mushroom Ketchup, Worcestershire Sauce, Pepper Sauce, etc., etc.

WONG AR SEE,

The Young China Tea Merchant, in full Chinese Costume, is still at our store where he will be happy to wait on customers.

The Great China Tea Company, established in Boston in 1835, and managed by Chinamen, enable to buy over first importation, and import only the first crop of Teas, which contain more strength and flavor than the later pickings. Our great facilities for obtaining these direct, enable us to supply a superior article at considerable less than is charged by the American dealers for inferior teas. Entire satisfaction guaranteed in all cases, or the money will be refunded.

Being the first firm in Bangor to return to specie prices, we have marked all our goods down to Gold prices.

The preparation is clear, all ingredients are easily dissolved, so as to enter the system in a form ready for use. It is a most valuable medicine for all complaints mentioned above, and will cure them. It has stood the test of years, and is now recommended by those who have used it to be the best medicine they know of for the cure of the diseases it purports to cure. It is not a drink, but a medicine, and can be taken by the most delicate without fear of injury. It is not a stimulating medicine, but a tonic, and a regulator of the whole system. It is the only medicine which has been in use for many years, and yet no one who has taken it has ever lost a dollar by it

WOMEN CLERKS IN THE DEPARTMENTS. The amendment in relation to women clerks, which was, by a vote of 30 to 20, added by the Senate to the general appropriation bill, provides that the compensation of chief female clerks, copyists and counters employed in the several departments and bureaus, whose appointments are made by provision of law, shall from and after the 30th of June, 1870, be the same as that of male clerks performing like or similar services, and it shall be the duty of the several heads of departments so to classify said female employees as to carry out this provision, and heads of departments are authorized to appoint female clerks who may be found competent and worthy, to any of the grades of the clerkships now known to the law in their respective departments, with compensation belonging to the class to which they are appointed. The final provision is that this amendment shall not authorize any increase in the number of clerks.

Much as we desire economy in every public department, we cannot but approve of the resolution arrived at by the Senate to pay the female clerks the same salaries as males which the same duties are performed. There ought to be no unfair restrictions placed upon women who are anxious to earn their daily bread. Let the women's rights advocates turn their attention to making female education of that thorough and practical kind which will enable women to enter on that career of life with advantages equal to men, and they will find that the average common sense and fairness of male humanity, against which they are so fond of inveighing, will interpose no needless obstacles to female competition.

CUBAN AFFAIRS. A rumor was current in Havana on the 25th, that the steamer George B. Upton had landed her passenger and cargo some days previous, in one of the bays on the north shore of the Eastern Department. Her passengers consist almost entirely of Cubans. The forces on board are under the command of Col. Gasper Betancourt of General Jordan's staff. His chief of staff is Lieut. Westerman a Dane, and a nephew of Baron De Mottke. Among the military officers are Contero, Lario, Vicino, Tipols and Terry. Twelve military engineer officers accompany the expedition. This cargo once in the hands of the Cubans is invaluable to the patriot cause. It consists of 5,000 muskets, 250 rifles, 160 revolvers, 700,000 metallic cartridges, 1,000,000 percussion caps, 4 tons of powder, 1 ton of sulphur, 10 army medicine chests, 50 saddles, 500 machetes and 100 bags of clothing.

CONSOLIDATION RATIFIED.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING OF THE MAINE CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.

The Stockholders' meeting of the Maine Central Railroad Company was called to order at the City Hall, in Waterville, on yesterday, by A. D. Lockwood, Esq., President, shortly after 11 a. m., from 150 to 160 persons being present. After the reading of the published call by Hon. Josiah H. Drummond, Clerk, the President announced that the first business would be on accepting the act of the Legislature of Maine, approved April 1, 1870, entitled "An Act to authorize the consolidation of certain railroad corporations."

The Clerk then read the lease and contract between the Maine Central, and Portland & Kennebec Railroad Companies, as published in the Whig & Courier of May 28, on the conclusion of which John A. Poor, Esq., of Portland, rose and addressed the meeting, alluding to himself as a stockholder and the representative of other Portland men, who had been detained from coming by the inconvenience and want of facilities, and expressing a hope that the measure proposed would be calmly and considerately discussed as became the disposition of matters so intricate and involving so many nice legal points not easily understood, and which had not long been made public. He then moved that in conducting the business of the meeting the rules of the United States House of Representatives should be adopted, as far as practicable for the government of the meeting, in accordance with the provisions of the charter and by-laws of the Company. After considerable discussion this was modified by substituting the rules of the House, of the State of Maine for 1870, and the motion was adopted on a rising vote, by a large majority.

Mr. Poor then offered the following resolution:

Whereas, The contract or contracts of May 12, 1870, providing for the lease or purchase of the line of the Portland & Kennebec Railroad Company involve a great variety of legal and financial questions of the greatest delicacy and difficulty, requiring careful scrutiny and investigation, and whereas, the printed copies of the contract or contracts had not previously been distributed, and are now for the first time laid before the stockholders at the time of the meeting—therefore,

Resolved, That in order to give all parties a fair hearing, said contract or contracts be referred to a Committee of three to report at an adjourned meeting; that said Committee have authority at their discretion to examine into the condition and comparative value of the two lines and report to, writing or otherwise, and that this meeting adjourn to meet at this place on the last Tuesday of June, 1870, at 11 A. M., and that the Directors be respectfully requested to allow an extra train on that day for accommodation of the stockholders from Portland to Waterville.

On this question Mr. Nye of Waterville moved a stock vote, which was resisted by Mr. Poor, and some sharp discussion ensued between that gentleman and Mr. Drummond, in which Mr. Poor exhibited some warmth and was called to order. The rules being suspended, on motion of Hon. A. P. Morrill, to allow the gentleman to continue his remarks, Mr. Poor proceeded, by general consent—

He said it was apparent that the last act of the drama was about to be accomplished. A more momentous question has never been presented to the people of Maine than the present. He characterized the proposed action in severe terms, and reflected strongly upon the conduct of the Directors, as a few men clad in the panoply of power and refusing others a hearing. A matter involving so VOLUME OF STOCKS AND BONDS was surely worthy of 30-days consideration. He believed in Railroads and Railroad union when it was just and in conformity to the laws of the State, and those who were unwilling to abide by the laws were not to be trusted. As this point the speaker became somewhat excited and was called to order by Mr. Morrill for his severe personal allusions to the controllers of the P. & K. Company, which induced some sharp retorts between the two gentlemen. Mr. Poor then disclaiming any intention of indulging in abuse asked, "Why not allow these gentlemen who have so often divided the plunder to lay fresh burdens on us? He then alluded at length to the action of the Legislature in refusing to sanction consolidation, and said the men who are directing this matter are those who have built splendid residences and factories from the property kindly taken from the hands of the stockholders by the P. & K. Co., and now propose to take control of other property.

At this point the meeting adjourned until after dinner and was again called to order at 1:30 P. M., when Mr. Poor resumed the floor, and on his motion, the Clerk again read the resolution.

Mr. P. then proceeded at great length, in references to the origin, history and future of the Maine Central Railroad, and in advocacy of the broad gauge, affirming that the Grand Trunk never would have been built but for this means of connecting with the east. If the ten men who claim to own the Kennebec Railroad and their agents who claim to own the Maine Central, intend to deny us an examination of this matter, let them do it. They were hold men and had done bolder things. Should the owners of this road yield to those who have battled it with unparalleled ferocity? He had been told by Jedediah Morrill, whom he thought a competent judge, that the real value of the Maine Central Road to the Kennebec as ties to tie the construction and durability, "We have gone beyond Bangor—we shall soon extend to Halifax, and a golden harvest will soon be open to the Central, compared to whose spending fields of traffic, the land of the P. & K. was but a goose pasture."

He estimated the road at a value of $2,400,000, and said the P. & K. Road, according to the last Report, was worth $1,291,793, and referring upon the inequality of the trade, commented upon the managers of the P. & K. in very severe terms, stating that in 1866 a part of the stock of the P. & K. R. R. as appointed by foreclosure, stood on the records: Dana Alden, $7,000, and H. D. Rice, $3,000. Mr. Alden, he believed, originally paid two dollars for the K. & L. stock, since then a change has occurred so that D. Alden holds $10,000, H. D. Rice, $8,100, and some $100,000 stands in the name of Gardiner Hide and Leather Bank of Boston. By this we see you are up to these parties, to make a profit out of us. All this go to these men and leave us to deal with the hasty manner in which we have dealt with us.

Hon. A. W. Paine, of Bangor, here spoke and said that he was one of the original to the merger. Never of consolidation in a proper, manner and upon proper principles, he decided to vote for the contract, and for one of what he considered important objections to their terms. He thought the contract was proper. He at least felt he should be given to examine the contract, and he recommended the motion of Hon. Josiah H. Drummond.

Mr. Taylor, Esq., of Eastport, desired another time.

Mr. Poor said to the Hon. Josiah H. Drummond, he was not for a stock vote, and he would be for the adoption of the report of the White & Courier, and he would be for the Grand Trunk, and the point of the Grand Trunk, and the point of the Grand Trunk, and the point of

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS—SECOND SESSION.

WASHINGTON, May 31.

SENATE.

Mr. Chandler introduced a bill to encourage the building of ships for foreign trade and other purposes.

Mr. Sumner, from the Com. on Foreign Relations, reported a bill incorporating the Pacific Sub-marine Telegraph Co., and to facilitate telegraphic communications between America and Asia, in accordance with the petition of Cyrus W. Field and others.

The Senate then went into Executive session and Mr. Sumner proceeded with his speech in favor of the Sandwich Island Reciprocity treaty.

HOUSE.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the bill to revive the navigation and commercial interests of the United States.

Mr. Lynch of Maine, moved the former question, which was seconded, and the main question ordered. Mr. Lynch proceeded to explain the substitute reported by the committee and to discuss the amendments and some of the objections to the bill. He denied that the bill was made in the interest of any class or section. The opposition to the bill came principally from New York merchants who, during the war, placed their ships under the British flag, from men who were interested in foreign steamship lines, and from subsidized agents of the Clyde shipbuilders.

In the course of the discussion Mr. Schenck made a point of order, that the hour to which Mr. Lynch was entitled had been consumed by him

The Speaker intimated that he would have to sustain the point of order, but appealed to Mr. Schenck not to insist upon it.

Mr. Schenck accordingly withdrew, and Mr. Lynch proceeded with his remarks in the course of which he reflected on the motives of Mr. Schenck.

Mr. Schenck—What do you mean by imputing motives?

Mr. Lynch—I withdraw the remark, if it is important.

Mr. Schenck—You ought to. It is impertinent and indecent. I have acted on my own judgment in regard to this bill.

Mr. Lynch—I withdraw the remark, in order to save time to go on with my argument.

After further debate by Messrs. Peters, of Maine, and Cox, of New York, Mr. Schenck moved to lay the bill and amendments on the table; but yielded to Mr. Butler, of Mass., who moved to reconsider the vote, ordering main question in order to move to refer the whole subject to the Committee on Ways and Means.

A motion to reconsider was rejected—78 to 97.

The morning hour expired and the Speaker announced that the bill must go over until to-morrow in the morning hour.

After considerable more discussion by different members the bill was recommitted to the Select Committee on the decline of American Commerce.

WEST INDIAN NEWS. The following Havana news has been received: The yellow fever has broken out at Neuvitas and Puerto Principe, greatly to the consternation of the Spaniards. The Cubans have been successful in several small engagements. Executions of Cuban prisoners by the Spanish authorities continue. The negroes of several estates, including the Constapeia and the Rosa Marie, have joined the insurgents. A Spanish schooner was captured by the insurgents while loading at the mouth of the Jatibonico river. The captain, crew and passengers, thirteen in all, were killed, and the schooner was burnt with a load of hides, wax and sugar, also three warehouses on shore, together with 60 hogsheads of sugar, 5000 feet mahogany, &c.

Sir Charles Bright has already reached St. Thomas to superintend the laying of the West Indies and Panama cable, which will unite Central and South America with Europe.

The Haytiens are perplexed over the discovery of large quantities of counterfeit money and loud cries are made for a National Banking system.

It is the oddest news that Captain-General or Butcher-General De Rodas did repeatedly invite American Commissioners to visit Cuba and examine into the barbarities alleged against him. The Commissioners would reach the scene of operations, of course, after the massacres had taken place, and would hear the most faithful Spanish accounts of them. A model execution or two, with banners, soldiers, priests, white-robed victims and garrote, might be provided for the special benefit of the Commissioners. No doubt, the cruelty of the Spaniards has been, in one or two instances, exaggerated; possibly one or two representatives of the United States in Cuba have proved humbugs; but the general sum of Spanish cowardice, infamy, and ferocity, will stand.

A Concord, N. H., dispatch says that the construction of the Sugar River Railroad from Bradford to Claremont, was commenced Tuesday morning, by the breaking of ground at Newport, under the superintendence of A. M. Shaw, Civil Engineer, and General Business Agent of the Northern Road. Cannon were fired and bells rung, to celebrate the event.

Bennett could not roll out of the way, the wheels passed directly over him between the hose and the hip protruding, which physicians call a compound, accompanied by fracture—the bone being broken in a number of places and pieces of it cutting out through the flesh and skin in a horrible manner. He was at once taken to the Hotel Dudley in Mechanic St. and attended by the Drs. Savery, who thought it might be that the injury was possible.

—On the docket of the S. J. Court in York County appear the names of William Shakespeare and Walter Scott as parties to actions, and, strange to say, Francis Bacon is counsel in both cases. Can the dockets of the civilized world parallel this singular coincidence? asks the Portland Independent.

—The Portland Press says that it is authorized by one of the Trustees of the Reform School, (wholly regretted not to accept his resignation) to say that there was no disagreement between the Superintendent and the Trustees in relation to the discharge of the Leviston boy, and although Mr. Woodbury did not declare his purpose of resignation if the boy was discharged, yet as his letter of resignation came immediately after the boy was discharged the Trustees had no doubt that was the principal cause of his resignation.

We know a generous deed
Can never die,
And scatters vital seed
Eternally.

We know, though to our eyes
No sign ye give
Somewhere beneath God's skies
Ye truly live.

And, soldiers, though your goals
On earth are won
For evermore your souls
Are marching on

So to your lifeless dust
Fresh flowers we bring,
Emblems of love to trust,
And deathless spring.

Not, grave, to what thou hast,
Nor yet alone
To the unburied past
These flowers are strown

Soldiers, beside us now
We think ye stand!
Greeting with radiant brow
A rapsoned band.

DEBORAH BECKETT'S WHITE CHICKEN.

BY MRS. H. J. HOWE.

"The minister? So 'tis, true's you live! Well, Henny, you jest leave that puddin' Elisabeth can tend to that, I guess; and' whip up the back stairs. You'll have time enough to get yer dress changed, an' yer hair slicked up a little, before he gets here."

And Henny, nowise averse to this arrangement, dropped her pudding spoon, and with a glance, half malicious, half comical, at her less favored sister, disappeared up the back stairway just as the minister's buggy turned from the dusty highway into the long green lane that led to Deacon Beckett's thrifty comfortable looking farm house.

It was certainly no fault of Elisabeth's that the young clergyman, as he rode past the kitchen window should not find smile a pleasant recognition to the pretty face, and figure framed in by the low, old fashioned casement or that this same face should flush up so prettily at the salutation; and yet Mrs. Beckett's tones had a disagreeable significance as she said, sharply:

"Seems to me, if I was a girl, I wouldn't put myself in any young man's way in the fix you're in, yer arms bare a' most, an' yer shoulders. 'Taint decent, for say the least, an' a minister, too."

Poor Elisabeth's flushed face grew rosier still at her mother's harsh insinuation, but she had not inherited enough of the good deacon's meekness and patience to keep her silent and she retorted spiritedly:

"My work is here by the window, as you know and as for my bare arms—how much worse is it for Mr. Bryant to see them than it is for him to see Henny's neck and arms both, in the new muslin dress that she's gone up stairs to put on?"

Mrs. Beckett's face was scarlet with anger "Shame on you!" she cried, "for speaking like that to yer own mother. You show a pretty spirit," she added significantly, "for anybody that's priz for prayers twice, before a whole meetin' house full. I shud be awful afraid if I was you, that folks'd say I did it jest to get the notice of the minister."

The bright, angry color faded from the girl's cheek and her eyes were full of unshed tears that the injustice of her mother's charge had called forth, but with a strong effort at self control, she forced back the quick, fierce retort that sprang to her lips, bending silently over her work with an assumed calmness that her mother mistook for sullen indifference.

"I've put her down, for once" thought the misjudging parent with a little thrill of satisfaction that was quickly overcast with the reflection: "But I shall have it to do again, like as not, before the day's over."

If Mrs. Beckett had been Elisabeth's step mother the whole neighborhood would have rung with her harshness and injustice, but as she was her own mother people only said that "Mis' Beckett didn't seem to understand Lisabeth, somehow."

And that was really the gist of the whole matter. With her hard, undemonstrative nature, it was next to an impossibility for her to comprehend a character that was, in all respects, her exact opposite. To her the girl's impulsive, outspoken ways were a proof of sinful frivolity, or worse, incipient infidelity, and the involuntary stretching out of the growing tendrils of her young mind in search of the nourishment that they craved, a sinful longing for forbidden fruit, that must be put down with a strong hand, before it killed, as it must, if permitted, to spiritual death and destruction.

The oldest daughter Henrietta or "Henny" as her mother fondly called her was a child after her own heart, a child whom as she often, proudly affirmed, she "could trust any where."

Though far less attractive in person than her younger sister, there was a subtile power in her changeable gray eyes, a something, in her even, unimpassioned tones that almost always impressed those about her with a sense of unapproachable saintliness; and when the old pastor who had so long ministered to the people in holy things, received the welcome summons "home," and his successor was ascertained to be a young and unmarried man, it seemed to be taken for granted, by all the old folks at least, that Henny Beckett would be just the one to take charge of the parsonage and its master.

Perhaps Mrs. Beckett's well timed hints and suggestions may have had more to do with this conclusion than people imagined, for the deacon's wife was too shrewd to show her "hand" openly in the matter that had already become a settled fact in her own mind before the young minister had come to "thirdly" in his first sermon. It would be such a triumph to see her Henny looked up to and respected as only the "minister's wife" could be. And when Mrs. Job Horsey the most notable housekeeper in the parish came to borrow the deacon's wife's receipt for pickling tomatoes, she was referred to Henny who, always "tended ter the pickin'," and she went away with the impression, that she didn't keep to herself by any means, that "Henny would be just the wife for 'the new minister, for, she could turn her hand to anything in the cookin' line."

Henny's pies, Henny's patterns, Henny's charities, in short Henny's perfections of every sort were unblushingly praised by her devoted mother, until people actually began to wonder that this angel had so long dwelt among them with undiscovered wings.

The minister had, probably, been more discerning than ordinary mortals, for it soon came to be remarked that his grey mare was oftener seen at the deacon's gate than at any other in the parish; and Henny had been caught, several times, by an unexpected visitor busily at work on some suspiciously smart looking patchwork. But nobody knew for a certainty, and there the matter rested for the present.

"Lisabeth," and Mrs. Beckett dusted the flour from her hands, and taking a peep into the pan of dough on the dresser, added in the habitually severe tone that she always assumed toward her youngest daughter:

"You just keep an eye on that dough, an' about, of a meeting between her younger daughter and the minister, the evening before, at poor Biddy Mahoney's' whom Henny had several times visited with tracts on upon "The Sin of Idolatry," and Elisabeth with various creature comforts suited to the poor woman's feeble state.

What was said in that long, pleasant walk home beneath the soft, summer moonlight, is nothing to you or me, although its memory had power to bring a half sigh, half proud smile to Elizabeth's sweet girlish face as she busied about the preparations for dinner, keeping a tenderly watchful eye upon the pudding which was a known favorite with the minister, and singing meanwhile, in her low, pleasant voice the opening lines of her father's favorite hymn:

"Oh, love, divine, how sweet thou art!"

It was very pleasant there in the neat, roomy kitchen, flooded as it was with the bright morning sunshine, and Elizabeth found the easiest thing in the world to be hopeful and cheery in spite of her "second division."

"Mother means well," she thought, charitably, "and she can't know how irritating the way of talking is, to me. I'm sure I try to be more patient" and not answer back, and perhaps—

Mrs. Beckett's step sounded in the entry, and Elizabeth, in spite of her good resolutions, felt, as she glanced at her clothing, a nervous thrill at the door way that something was wrong, and that she would have to defend herself.

She didn't know—how should she?—that Mr. Bryant had, in spite of all the elements of the immaculate Henny, perceived a way after her sister, intimating several times pretty strongly, even after Mrs. Beckett's exclamation, that she was busy and wished to be excused, that he would like to see the young lady herself; to all of which insinuations Mrs. Beckett turned a apparently deaf ear, though they rankled bitterly in her heart and were not slow to find vent in words, concerning the kitchen, she lifted the dough from the bread pan, and saw the smallest bubbles upon the surface of the dough.

"There, you've been an' done it now—that yet That's all the rise, I'm sure, for an hour. Look a' there!" and she pointed indignantly to the now leavened mass.

The hot angry blood leaped up in the Elisabeth's cheeks, but she forced herself to speak quietly: "I'm sorry I forgot it. But really, what harm will it do? It has risen a little, it will be just as white and firm, and—"

"Elizabeth Beckett! What do you mean by such talk?" almost screamed the mother, horror stricken at such abominable heresy beneath her very roof.

"It's been nigh onto twenty year, I am sure, that I've made the Communion bread, every month, an' I never seen a leaven yet, mind! Do you think I'd insult the table of the Lord with fir bread?"

Elizabeth was roused to reply, she did, scornfully, it may be, if her mother had been calmly angered instead of unreasonable.

"What difference does it make in matter of beating the Last Supper of Our Lord, whether it is risen or unleavened bread, as long as there are no special directions given on the subject? For my part, I don't believe in this mad, unreasoning and cumbrous, that you make it a matter of conscience in comparison with the fruits of the Spirit, that we read are such" here her mother's long sermon—

"Don't let me hear any more of your pernicious talk!" interrupted her mother, angrily.

"I've been afraid, for years, that I was a born child of perdition, an' I don't think I live as great a mind as I ought to, but I never, in all the time, heard the minister, of yer talk, an' if it isn't for disgracen' yer Henny, I'm ashamed to be called by him a sister to yo."

"Mother," and the face that Elizabeth turned toward her mother was so white and painful, that even that stern, wrathful woman felt not wholly unmoved by it,

"Mother do you hate me?"

Mrs. Beckett was silent, a moment embarrassed by this plain unvarnished question. She couldn't say with a'l and buck of conscience by tenfold:

"No my child,—I love you with all my heart, but I tremble for your future!"

That wouldn't have been her way of the only said, with the least possible softening her cold tones:

"That's a queer question to ask your own mother, an' not a very polite one to boot, at the least. You've always been a great trial to me, 'Lisabeth, an' God only knows what will become of yer life. I can't do no more but pray for you."

To this Elizabeth made no answer, and when at dinner the young minister cast a longingly for the glad sunshine that streamed upon him from those bright hazel eyes, he saw only a gloomy, half sullen face, surprised as well as grieved him.

"What can it be?" he thought, and his great warm heart yearned pityingly over this weaker spirit that seemed to stand strangely alone, unappreciated and misunderstood amid the coarser natures around her.

The deacon's mild church "exercises" with his wife's sharper comments, and Henny's plain coquetries only bored and irritated him. He could find neither interest or amusement in them while that drooping pallid face appealed to him so pitiably of the heart's silent suffering, for shelter and support.

"I'll speak to the deacon before I leave," was his mental decision, a decision more easily made than kept, for the transparent Henny was never far away, and her presence seldom never failed to mingle in all their interviews, whether upon theology or grain, growing, making the intended confidence an absolute impossibility, and he was obliged to content himself with a stolen whisper in Elizabeth's ear as he took his departure, that brought a faint flush to her wan face and a silent light to her eye that all the after-trial of the day had not the power to dim.
